

A portable, silver-colored metal case, likely for a portable power supply or testing equipment. The case is open, revealing a red coiled cable inside. The front panel features two analog meters, several control knobs, and a prominent red emergency stop button. The case has a sturdy handle and latches.

